

Building Memories

A family-owned and operated business, Champagne Aquatech Pools of Florida makes sure everything it does is lifelong. The company's top-quality pools provide a breathtaking backdrop for all of life's memorable moments. Owner Michael Manley knows what his customers are looking for, not only because he listens and incorporates their ideas into the design process, but also because he is one of them—a family man.

Communication is intrinsic to every project at Champagne Aquatech Pools. Relating to the lifestyles, wants and needs of its clients is the first step. Customers are then educated about their options so they can help decide on a final plan, which Manley and his team execute—down to the last detail. “Our vision for each and every pool is to exceed our customers' expectations,” explains Manley.

With its highly professional staff of talented craftsmen, the company is known as a premier builder. Champagne Aquatech Pools is a proud member of Aquatech, an invitation-only society that sets high standards for the industry. Aquatech builders regularly attend seminars to advance their knowledge, studying topics that include construction, service, management and financial control. The company utilizes today's latest technology in its designs and features, which work together to create unique poolscapes.

Champagne Aquatech Pools has been honored as one of the top pool companies in the country, and named master of design by an industry trade magazine. The company received a gold award from the Association of Pool & Spa Professionals for its outstanding work and has been featured internationally as part of HGTV's New American Home.

For Manley and his staff, pools mean possibilities—for what is real and what is imagined. The company knows that poolside moments are meant to be created and captured to trace the passage of one generation to the next. ♦

Beauty can be found in the eye of anyone who beholds this exotic perimeter overflow pool. A tall spillway from the fireplace descends into illuminated water. This focal point, which is complemented by a semi-circular beach entry, coordinates with the deck surface.

Mind and body will eagerly fold into a completely relaxed state in this perfectly symmetrical pool. Its simple use of lines and curves exudes class. A connected spa provides equilibrium—essential to the pool's gentle form and to its bathers' inner states.

Reminiscent of an altar, this elegant poolscape is powerful enough to evoke a religious effect. Its patterned paver decking and matching coping distinguish the water's heavenly hue. An elevated water feature creates soothing sounds to complete the healing nature of this retreat.
